

BROTHERHOOD HEADS CONFER WITH WILSON

Are Determined Eight Hour Law Shall Be Sustained

At Conferences With President They Declare Purpose To Aid Government In Fighting Injunction Suits Against Adamson Law—Will Address A. F. of L. Convention In Baltimore Today.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Heads of the railroad employees' brotherhoods, determined that the Adamson 8-hour law shall not be broken down, conferred today with President Wilson. Attorney General Gregory and their legislative representatives, declared their purpose to aid the government in every way in fighting injunction suits against the law and made further plans for perfecting a working agreement with their attorneys and railroad men of the American Federation of Labor. When the government attorneys will appear in court next Thursday in Kansas City to oppose injunction suits against the Adamson law they will be flanked by representatives of the brotherhoods.

Great significance is attached to the announcement today that the brotherhood heads will address the American Federation of Labor convention in Baltimore tomorrow. Never have any of their members met in joint session but their meeting at Baltimore will be the result of a carefully worked out agreement that the two forces shall join hands in working for the general betterment of the organized railway employees.

After receiving the brotherhood heads and Chairman Adamson, author of the eight hour law, President Wilson virtually finished his message to congress in which he will recommend completion of the railway legislative program outlined by him at the last session. These recommendations include provisions for the enlargement of the inter-state commerce commission and for compulsory investigation of proposed strikes. The latter is bitterly opposed by the brotherhood leaders. President Wilson told a delegation from Evansville, who called during the day to tell him that there would be a middle states conference on the railroad situation in their city early in December, that he hoped there would be similar discussions of the problem in other sections of the United States and that he wished all business men would investigate the question in an open minded way.

After their 15 minute conference with the president the brotherhood heads would admit only that they had congratulated Mr. Wilson on his re-election. Warren S. Stone, head of the engineers declared he could not tell now whether a strike would be called if the 8-hour law was not put into effect January 1st.

"We can tell better later," he said.

Affiliation a Possibility.
Baltimore, Md., Nov. 20.—Affiliation of the four railroad brotherhoods with the American Federation of Labor as a separate body was regarded as more than a possibility tonight by influential federation leaders. It was reported on reliable authority that representatives of the railway department of the federation had been in conference with officials of the Brotherhoods looking to an affiliation of all railway men with the federation. Two separate organizations of railway employees with membership in the federation that would give them the support of the organized labor forces of the country in any effort to advance the interests of all organized railway workers, was the plan, according to information obtained tonight. It has been arranged that the presidents of the four brotherhoods shall place their cause before the federation convention at tomorrow morning's session. The federation executive council already has reported to the core convention that the Brotherhoods were assured of the support and co-operation of the American Federation of Labor in their struggle for the eight-hour day. The only reference to the possibility of affiliation of the brotherhoods with the federation coming from President Gompers was made late today. It came at the close of a three hour debate over what seemed to be an unimportant matter.

President Gompers said that there involved, however, the principle of compulsory association as against voluntary association in the federation. On the principle of voluntary association, he said the federation had gone and thrived. Had the old principle of compulsion remained in force the bricklayers, machinists, and other strong unions would never have affiliated with the federation, he said. Then he added, after a pause: "Do you think if we go back to compulsion, it will induce the railroad brotherhoods to become affiliated? Is it not more likely to drive them away from us?"

Special agents of the department of justice, who last week seized the books of two cold storage warehouses, received further records today from warehouse men who voluntarily turned them over.

Predicts Fifty Cent Butter
Chicago, Nov. 20.—There is every reason to believe that the price of butter will continue to rise, according to a statement made today by C. E. McNeill, president of the Chicago Butter and Egg Board. Mr. McNeill asserted that the board price probably will be fifty cents a pound before the first of the year "if the orders continue to come in as they are now."

The storage houses were cleared when this season began," he said, "and the demand has been heavy. War orders, for butter itself, for condensed milk, and cheese are partly responsible for the increased demand. I see no indication of a diminished demand."

Inspectors of the United States department of justice began efforts to discover the reason for the rising cost of butter with investigations of the Chicago and Elgin boards. It was learned today, Mr. McNeill said he had supplied one inspector with figures as to the amount of butter in storage. This, he said, is about 10,000,000 pounds less than at this time.

DEUTSCHLAND PREPARED TO RESUME HER VOYAGE

With Repairs Completed and Free of Legal Entanglements German Submarine May Leave for Bremen at Any Time.

New London, Conn., Nov. 20.—Freed from legal entanglements which have accumulated since she sank one of her conveying tugs in the Race Point, Britly, the German merchant submarine, Deutschland, was prepared tonight to resume her interrupted voyage to Bremen. While officials of the Eastern Forwarding company were as secretive as usual concerning plans, there were strong indications that the submarine would set out to sea within the next twenty four hours.

From reliable sources it was learned that repairs were completed yesterday afternoon and tests proved that the craft was not seriously damaged in the collision. Iron bars have been riveted crosswise in her bow, however, as a precaution against possible damages that do not appear on the surface.

RAILROAD EXECUTIVES WILL STATE THEIR CASE

Will Appear Before Joint Congressional Committee

Body Which is Investigating Transportation Problems Holds Its First Session and Decides to Hear Railroad First.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—What is the matter with the railroads and what kind of legislation congress might enact to better conditions will be pictured to the joint congressional committee investigating transportation problems beginning Thursday by the executives of some of the greatest systems in the country.

The investigating committee held its first session today, heard an opening statement by its chairman, Senator Newlands, and received notice of appearance from nearly one hundred public utility companies, state railway commissions, commercial and industrial organizations and shippers and individuals.

In executive session tonight it was decided to hear the railroads first, in the belief that their executives are better prepared to state their case without further delay. The railway executives' advisory committee composed of more than a dozen heads of important systems was advised and it is expected that most of the members will testify before the railroad side is completely told.

The committee decided to hold hearings each week-day. Representatives of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Western Union Telegraph company and several of the big express companies were present and will be heard before the committee reports.

The railroad phase of the investigation is expected to take most of the committee's time, but under the resolution its investigations are to cover all public utilities.

ADDITIONAL WITNESSES HEARD IN LIBEL SUIT

$800,000 Suit At Red Oak, Iowa, Outcome of Moore Axe Murders in Villisca in 1912.

Red Oak, Iowa, Nov. 20.—Two additional witnesses were heard for the defense today in the $800,000 libel suit of F. F. Jones, former state senator, against J. N. Wilkerson, a detective of Kansas City in which Jones alleges that Wilkerson charged him with being responsible for the Moore axe murders in Villisca in 1912. Joseph Moore, one of the victims, was a business rival of Jones.

"Get Joe first, the rest will be easy" was part of a conversation which Mr. Allan Willard, a neighbor of Moore testified she overheard from two strangers who had been around the Moore home prior to the crime. She also stated that later she saw Jones and W. B. McCaull talking to the strangers.

"McCaull is proprietor of a pool hall in Villisca and according to testimony previously brought out hired a motor car the night of the murder and did not return until nearly noon the next day."

Mrs. Willard will resume her testimony tomorrow. Mrs. Vina Tompkins, Marshalltown, was the other witness heard today.

INJUNCTION WILL BE PARAMOUNT ISSUE

Labor Forces Avow Hostility Against Measure—Will Make Injunction Question Paramount Issue in Political Activities.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 20.—The organized labor forces of the country avowed extreme hostility today to the writ of injunction as a means of stopping strikes. First, a resolution was adopted unanimously at the morning session of the convention of the American Federation of Labor, urging organized labor everywhere to make the injunction question "the paramount issue in all their future political activities."

A more radical step was taken at the afternoon session when the committee on the executive council report took up that feature of the report dealing with the decision of the Massachusetts supreme court classifying labor as property.

The commission submitted and the convention unanimously adopted a resolution "that any injunction dealing with the relationship of employer and employ, and based on the dictum that labor is property, be disregarded, let the consequences be what they may."

War News Summarized

With the end of the first stage of the Franco-Serbian campaign which resulted in the capitulation of Monastir by the Bulgarians and Germans and a diminution of hostilities in the Somme region of France, except for bombardments and isolated infantry actions, Roumania again has become the center of interest.

Driving eastward thru western Wallachia, the Austro-German forces now are reaching out for Craiova, being on the railway midway between the Danube town of Orsova, Hungary and Bucharest. This maneuver apparently places a menace in the rear to the retreat of the Roumanians fighting in the recta on Hungarian soil and disputing with the Austro-Germans the passing of the Transylvania Alps leading to plains of Wallachia. In the Jiu valley the retirement of the Roumanians continues and in the Campulung sector Petrograd reports that further Roumanian attacks against the Teutonic allies have been unsuccessful. On the Danube front in Dobudja artillery engagements are in progress from Silistria to Olina.

The fighting in Macedonia from the Cerna river to Lake Presha has ended in a complete victory for the entente allied troops says the Paris war office. The Serbs have not yet entered Monastir, captured Sunday the town having been virtually destroyed, according to unofficial accounts. The entente forces have occupied villages to the north of the town and are declared still to be in pursuit of the Germans and Bulgarians, Berlin says. However, that the newly chosen positions selected for their retirement north of Monastir have been entered by the Germans and Bulgarians without pressure at their antagonists and also that new German forces have reached the fighting zone.

The German artillery on the Somme front near Beaumont-Hamel and Guedecourt and on the Verdun sector near Douaumont have heavily shelled British and French positions. Strong forces of Austrians in an assault on the summit of Hill 126 on the Carso front of the Italian theater have captured Italian entrenchments. Cold weather has set in on the Russian front.

BUTLER SUGGESTS U. S. SUPREME COURT MODEL

President of Columbia University Believes It Model International Court of Justice.

New York, Nov. 20.—The United States supreme court was suggested today by President Nicholas Murray Butler, of the Columbia University as a model of an international court of justice.

Dr. Butler's idea was outlined in an address at a luncheon given by the United States court. "Unless a court is modeled on our supreme court we can hardly hope for its successful establishment," said Dr. Butler. "In German administrative circles, the idea of a body of judges sitting free from all administrative influences and giving their judgments against the government, as our judges again and again have done, is inconceivable."

Theodore Marburg, formerly an American minister to Belgium said the aims of the world court league and of the league to enforce peace were not in conflict.

ACCIDENT STATISTICS PRESENTED AS EVIDENCE

Introduced at Hearing Before Board of Arbitration at Switchmen's Union Controversy.

New York, Nov. 20.—Government statistics dealing with accidents to Switchmen and Yardmen employed by the railroads of the country were presented as evidence late today at a hearing before the board of arbitration in the controversy between the Switchmen's Union and thirteen railroads in regard to the eight-hour day.

It was shown that 2,243 switchmen and yardmen had been killed and injured in the months of July, August and September, 1915. A table, based on those figures gave 9,732 killed and injured for a year, or about one man in five among the 45,000 switchmen and yardmen in the United States. The number of killed was placed at 254.

After the case for the switchmen had been closed, W. H. O'Keefe, assistant general superintendent of the Michigan Central railroad, the first witness for the railroads, asserted that an eight-hour day is unworkable. The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

SECY. LANE WILL NAME TERMS OF AGREEMENT

Secretary of Interior Will Meet Mexican Commission Today

Terms Providing for Ample Protection Along International Border and for Withdrawal of American Punitive Expedition Will Be Explained by Chairman of American Commission.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 20.—Louis Cabrera and his colleagues on the Mexican-American joint commission will be told formally tomorrow by Secretary of the Interior Lane, chairman of the American commission on just what terms of agreement providing for the withdrawal of the American punitive expedition and the protection of life and property along the international border may be reached.

Fortified by the assurance of President Wilson that he will back the American representatives in their efforts to reach a settlement of the questions at issue between Mexico and the United States, Secretary Lane returned here late today. He immediately went into conference with Dr. J. E. Mott and Judge George Gray, the other American commissioners, informing them in detail of the conference he had at Washington Saturday with the president.

End of Conference May Be in Sight.
The formal meeting with the Mexicans will take place tomorrow. The Americans seemed confident that the end of the conference is in sight. The Mexicans appeared not to take a pessimistic view of the situation. Mr. Cabrera again assuring newspapermen that he was very hopeful of an amicable adjustment.

Whether Ignacio Bonillas and Alberto J. Pani, the other members of the Mexican commission, were prepared to stand by Mr. Cabrera could not be determined. There was some reason tonight to believe that Mr. Cabrera had won them over to an argument to stand with him.

BORDER CONTROL DEBATE

The question at issue is not the withdrawal of Gen. Pershing's troops. They will be called back when the American government is convinced that it can be done without jeopardizing the safety of the border. The more debatable question is the method of controlling the border after they have been taken out. The Mexicans will not be permitted to place restrictions on the manner in which the American government may protect its border nor on the manner in which it may punish marauding bandits.

"When the Mexican commissioners leave here it will be with the realization that American forces will be used to run down any raiding band that crosses the border into the United States, regardless of where they have to go or how long they will have to stay in Mexico. It was regarded here tonight as not improbable that a delay might be caused by the desire of the Mexicans to communicate further with General Carranza."

STEFFAUSON FEARS TROUBLE WITH ESKIMO

Blond Tribe May Prove Menace to Explorer's Expedition.

New York, Nov. 20.—Fear that blond Eskimos may prove a menace to his expedition are expressed by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, in a letter written from Cape Klett, Bank's Island in the Arctic and received today by Dr. Herbert J. Spinden, assistant curator of Anthropology at the American museum of natural history in this city. Stefansson wrote in part:

"We have had a falling out with the blond Eskimo (Kangriyarmut) which is exceedingly unfortunate. I sent the captain of the Polar Bear to them and he treated them as if they were civilized and knew we are a superior order of beings to them. They did not know it and would not act on that basis. Little led to more, ending with the stripping of the captain's party of all they had, down to their drinking cups and plates."

To make matters ten fold worse they got a severe cold (influenza, or whatever you call it) and the last we knew they were on the verge of starvation because illness had prevented hunting. This we learned from two men who came to see us from Ramsay Island.

"Others were afraid to come. They believed we gave them influenza by witchcraft, and prayed us, by deputating, to remove the epidemic."

"Should death occur either from disease or starvation the break with them will be serious. For the present, they profess great friendliness for me personally."

"I had hoped to stay with them some months for study, but now we shall have to guard our houses and camps."

PROSPERITY REDUCES DRUNKENNESS

Report of United Charities in Chicago Shows Interference on the Decline.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Prosperity has greatly reduced the amount of drunkenness and its consequent poverty in Chicago, according to the annual report of the United Charities today.

"Only 857 pronounced cases on in-temperance were dealt with during the year," the report says. "This is the lowest number found in four years and may be due to the fact that the men were busy earning their living rather than idling."

"We had there were 1,146 deserted families, a low proportion to the total number investigated, 14,000, than in 1912-13, when 2,733 desertions were found in 13,000 families."

"We had a much smaller volume of distress to deal with than in former years."

STATE IS DEVELOPING CASE AGAINST M'DANIEL

Effort to Convict Accused Thru Circumstantial Evidence

State Attempts to Show Robbers Had Not Entered McDaniel Home Night of Murder of Prosecutor's Wife—Blood Stained Pillow Introduced in Evidence.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 20.—Development of the state's case against Prosecutor Oscar D. McDaniel, was gotten well underway in the criminal court today with the presentation of a mass of details relative to events both before and after the murder of Mrs. Harriet Moss McDaniel, wife of the prosecutor who is being tried on the charge of having been her murderer. The prosecution attempted its first steps in its announced effort to convict the accused man thru circumstantial evidence and began its attack upon McDaniel's version of how the crime was committed.

The name of Dagmar Krucker, the divorced wife of a St. Joseph business man and friend of the slain woman was brought into the case today thru the testimony of W. H. Heatherington, former chief of detectives. She has been subpoenaed as a state's witness. Earlier in the day the state had attempted to show that robbers had not entered the McDaniel home the night of the murder and killed the prosecutor's wife, as one of the defense theories has been.

Police Officers on Stand.
The evidence adduced thruout most of today's session came from police officers who worked on the murder, most of them confirming previous testimony concerning events the night of July fourth, when Mrs. McDaniel was attacked.

A blood-stained pillow, its case torn and ripped furnished ground for the most dramatic incident of the afternoon. It was brought in by Bart M. Lockwood, special prosecutor, who conducted the state's examination and cast at feet of a patrolman witness with the declaration that it was from the bed of the slain woman. A stir ran thru the courtroom crowd, composed largely of women, many of whom had been in the county building since early this morning.

The accused prosecutor slumped in his chair as the pillow was unwrapped and Mrs. Harriet Moss and Miss Allene Moss, mother and sister of Mrs. McDaniel, hid their faces in their hands.

Tells of Visit to Fishing Camp.
Mrs. Krucker was mentioned by Mr. Heatherington in connection with a visit to the fishing camp about twenty miles from St. Joseph on the Platt river about a week before the murder. He told of having seen her there with her husband, from whom she was not then divorced and Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel. He testified of having seen Mrs. Krucker wearing overalls and said that he had observed nothing unusual.

"How did McDaniel and his wife comport themselves," he was asked on cross-examination. "As any husband and wife," he replied.

"Did you observe anything unusual?"

"No," Heatherington answered. Mr. Heatherington was used by defense during cross-examination in their efforts to show that Mr. McDaniel had been a vigorous prosecuting attorney, as a result of which persons inimical to him might have killed his wife for spite.

In Chicago Sunday 10,000 people heard Bryan deliver a temperance address with the first commandment as his theme and so many thousands tried fruitlessly to gain admittance that traffic was blocked on Michigan avenue. Mr. Bryan in the espousal of the dry cause and assuming leadership is not nearly so far in advance of his times as he has been in other instances; and as a general in the dry army the former secretary of state cannot be accused of inconsistency for he has year after year thru all his public life been the open and avowed enemy of the saloon and all that pertains to the liquor traffic.

Is Bryan Ahead of His Time?

William J. Bryan has sometimes been termed ahead of his time. Years ago he advocated principles in political affairs which at the time were considered very radical but which later were adopted by the Progressive party and then found favor with Republicans and Democrats. Now Col. Bryan is taking rank as the foremost dry advocate in the country and wants the Democratic party to love so much to become the party of national prohibition. That the "peerless one" may not be so very far ahead of his time in this anti-saloon movement was very forcibly brought to attention yesterday in the Chicago Tribune cartoon, which depicted the men most interested in the liquor traffic looking with genuine alarm upon the handwriting on the wall, where they read these words: "There are 3,898 counties in the U. S. and 2,542 of them are dry." It is not unusual to see maps showing the preponderance of dry states in the union but there are comparatively few people who have looked at the matter from a county standard and thus realized what marvelous strides toward prohibition have been made in a comparatively few years' time.

Five or six years ago there were those who believed that the temperance or dry wave was at its zenith and that a reaction would soon set in. They were false prophets. Instead of receding the wave has widened and grown stronger and there is every indication that at no distant day it will cover the whole country. A better understanding of the evils of the liquor traffic and the resentment of the people to the part the liquor interests have attempted to take in political and governmental affairs have had much to do with increasing dry settlement. Then as another strong factor must be remembered the European war where this nation has had the spectacle of prohibition radically enforced in order to conserve the strength of the people. The war has furnished the greatest temperance lesson of all the ages.

The time can be remembered when even a speaker of Co. Bryan's wide renown would have had a mere handful as an audience if announced to speak on the temperance question.

Amazing Export Figures.

There is some satisfaction in the knowledge that the Russian government has given a New York City bank authority for the establishment of a branch but the underlying thought should not give too much of the sense of security to American business about what is to happen commercially after the war. The conditions are these: that during the first eight months of this year the exports of this country were five times those of the same months in 1914. To the allies and colonies we sent goods to the value of $3,220,500,877 and to all other countries in the world $730,475,743. When the war ceases and the allies not only produce the goods that they are now buying from us, but also become competitors for the other markets to which the United States manufactures are shipping, what is going to happen? This is by all odds the biggest question now before the American people.

Bankers Great Community Aids

The Prairie Farmer calls to mind that among the changes which have come in the banking business is the interest which the average banker feels in his community. The banking business has developed beyond a mere selfish standpoint and the banker no longer awaits hopefully the opportunity to foreclose and on the contrary much prefers to give every aid possible to his customer to do business successfully. This spirit may not be altogether unselfish because in a broad sense the bankers prosper as the business of the community prospers.

But it is a recognition of the common interest which bankers and their customers have which tends to bring about better conditions. The community which has bankers who are using their intimate knowledge of the business affairs of that community to better themselves and at the same time the public generally is fortunate indeed.

Court House Rest Room.

The idea of a public rest room in the court house somehow seems to strike a more responsive chord than a rest room in the park pagoda. In the court house the needed facilities could be secured at much less cost and the expense for maintenance would be reduced because the heating plant in the building is adequate. The pagoda building would require a very considerable expenditure to make it available for the proposed purpose and then the space would not be large enough. There is the added fact that the location is so very public that it would be less desirable than the court house site. There is something very fitting, too, in the idea of adding the desired facilities to the court house building which belongs to the people. That project is certainly feasible and if the city and county officers take early action to bring the proposal to a reality they will be generally commended.

A Great and Just Judge.

The Chicago papers yesterday gave "human interest" stories about Judge Kennesaw Mountain Landis who had just reached his fiftieth birthday. In many respects Judge Landis ranks as the first citizen of Chicago and the press there seems to with one accord keep him in the public mind in a favorable way.

More properly speaking Judge Landis keeps himself in the public eye because of the very human way in which he discharges his duties in the supreme bench. His acts and decisions in various important cases show very clearly that his overpowering desire is to see justice done to individuals and the public. He hates shams and technicalities which get in the way of justice and in his course as judge he has made self secondary to all else. While he maintains the dignity of person and of position, he has not found it necessary to build around him a wall of formality and seems to realize the great truth that if he can see justice done in all the cases that come within his jurisdiction that he will have enough distinction and that no special forms are necessary.

In Chicago Kennesaw Mountain Landis is honored and revered by those who love justice and is feared by those who do evil or who seek to profit illegally. A judge today who keeps law facts and principles above forms and technicalities, who makes pettifoggery lawyers ashamed of themselves, is indeed a friend of the people and possibly that name best of all summarizes the character and work of the unique and just Chicago jurist.

The Unsolved Problem

The supply of water at Morgan lake has diminished to the danger point. There are not enough wells at the north side station to furnish all the water needed from that source. There is not money available for development work and so the condition that has so often annoyed and alarmed us is with us again and the demand comes in a somewhat insistent way which will grow more insistent unless there are some late rains. In some of the war ridden countries they are limiting the food supply of the people and in Jacksonville it is not at all out of the probabilities that within the coming weeks there may be a limit for the uses of the public water supply.

It is fortunate, indeed, that there have been no big fires in this city for months past. As a matter of record the whole fire department has not been called out for the past fifty two days and thus there has not been a great draft on the city's water supply for fire protection purposes. Naturally a great many people will believe that as we have always gotten thru dry times unscathed that the city will do so again this time. This may be the case and we hope it will, but some time the people of Jacksonville will awaken to the situation that money must be provided for the securing of an additional water supply.

It is not the question of a supply for commercial purposes with the object in view of securing new industries, it is a question of taking care of the business enterprises and institutions we now have and of furnishing to the residents of Jacksonville a supply to meet the daily needs under present conditions. The question, therefore, which is before the city council of Jacksonville and the people of Jacksonville is how to secure funds for water development and the question of the best method of development. Say that it is an old hackneyed story if you will, but it is nevertheless a true story and one that represents a condition and not a theory.

DEFENSE OF "THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER"

Oh who has not seen the crowds that have cheered
When the bands played the strains to our country endeared;
Or caught of the spirit and the meaning so plain
That he sprang to his feet at the first stirring strain.
For the song and the flag in the land of the free
Are symbols that point to sweet liberty.

Oh who can be still or remain in his seat
When the strains of that music are heard in the street,
Oh who does not doff his hat, it is true,
And wave it aloft for the Red, White and Blue.

And think of the boys, who our country to save,
Have kept that bright banner affixed o'er the brave.
"The Star Spangled Banner" still tells to the world
That it waved o'er the fort where bolts had been hurled,
"The Star Spangled Banner" its words ever tell
How the gate to our county was battered by shell,
And yet at the dawn, after perilous night,
Those folds were still streaming to gladden the sight.

Oh who sees today by the morn's early light,
And the rocket's red glare, inspiring to write,
Or who feels the thrill that passed thru the frame
Of Francis Scott Key of immortal fame,
As his hand flew to write those words long ago,
When he saw on the ramparts our colors aglow.

Oh how long may we sing and teach to our young,
Our national song. Be it on every tongue.
"Atrocious its music?" Then you have not heard
The voice of our land in each strain and each word.
"Write a better, you say!" You may write well and long,
But "The Star Spangled Banner" is our nation's own song.
S. Adrian Hughes.

Rippling Rhymes By WALT MASON

THE BEGGAR

The snow will soon be flying, the snow we love so well; in drifts it will be lying along the hazel dell. The howling winds will grip us, and give our ears a bliff, the morning frost will nip us, and make our whiskers stiff. But we who toiled and panted preparing for this time, are cheerful and enchanted to see the snow and time. And now there is a corner to every worker's door—the man who loafed all summer, and dodged the useful chore. The man who lounged and idled, hard by the village kirk, and who in anger bridled, when he was asked to work. In ancient, chestnut phrasin's, he asks for things to chaw, for liver-wurst and raisins, for pumpkin pies and slaw. His kids, in countless numbers, are suffering for bread; his aunts are robbed of slumbers because they have no bed. The same old whistled story, you've heard for years and years, told by a sinner hoary, with alligator tears! He profits by your bounty, you give him tripe and tea, and wonder why the county won't feed such skates as he.

AT WESTMINSTER
At Westminster church Sunday morning Rev. E. B. Landis, the pastor, preached the second of a series of three sermons on "I am the way, the truth and the life." The theme Sunday was, "I am the truth," and in the evening the pastor preached a sermon having a direct bearing on this theme. He took for the lesson the visit of the Queen of Sheba to King Solomon's court and gave not only the Bible story but the interesting legends which history presents in addition. The whole sermon had ready application to the very interesting discussion at the morning hour. Next Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Landis will complete the group of sermons with "I am the life," as his subject.

Business and Personal

Mrs. Olive Meyers was up from St. Louis Sunday.

Sheriff Edwards passed through town from Carrollton Monday en route to Beardstown on a business trip in his auto. He is still somewhat incapacitated as the result of his recent automobile accident, and was accompanied by one of his trusty prisoners from the county jail.

Scott Denham, a resident of the Walkerville vicinity, was arrested by City Marshal Conlee on Thursday of last week, on advice from Chicago that he is wanted there for contempt of court. He was taken to Chicago Friday night by Deputy Moses Hudson.

Herman Lewis, a tramp, was arrested by Sheriff Edwards Saturday afternoon and lodged in the county jail. The fellow had been terrorizing women at Patterson who refused to feed him. When the men sought to take up the matter, the tramp acted threateningly, with the result that the sheriff was notified, and the offender was located on the C. & A. track between Drake and Hillview. He was taken to Carrollton and placed in jail over Sunday. Monday a deputy sheriff brought him to White Hall for a hearing before Justice Fowler. He pleaded guilty and was fined fifty dollars and costs. Failing to pay, he was returned to the county jail to lay out the fine. State's Attorney Bowman prosecuted the case.

Earl M. Read was in from the Appollonia neighborhood Monday, eleven miles southeast of White Hall. It will be remembered that he lost his home while he and his family were attending the state fair. Rebuilding operations were started at once, and their new home will be ready for occupancy next week.

The Illinois Condensed Milk Company has established a milk station at Kane, according to the following, which was clipped from the Kane Review: "J. C. Spencer, of White Hall, has established a milk shipping station at this place with Delbert Musgrove as manager. They commenced buying Wednesday morning in the old blacksmith shop north of Newton-Beatty's, and no doubt in the spring will build a station on railroad ground. This is bound to be a benefit to the farmers of this community, who should see to it that they get all the surplus milk from their premises."

Stoneware Superintendent Dead.
Wadsworth Stoffer, at one time superintendent of the Culbertson stoneware plant in this city and later superintendent of the novelty pottery works at Roodhouse for a short time, died on Tuesday of last week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Chatwell, formerly Miss Ethel Stoffer, at Fort Smith, Ark., according to advices received by M. J. Gahuly, who frequently visited Mr. Stoffer in recent years while on his rounds for the Western Stoneware Co. Mr. Gahuly received the following clipping from a Fort Smith paper:

"At the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Chatwell, 2128 North I street, death came to end the suffering of Wadsworth Stoffer at 7:10 o'clock Tuesday morning in his 84th year. The deceased was a native of Ripley, Illinois. While still young he moved to other parts of Illinois making a home for himself and his family. In 1877 he married there to Miss Samantha Vass Maury. Eight years ago he moved to Fort Smith, making his home with his daughter. Mr. Stoffer had been a member of the Odd Fellow lodge of Macomb for over forty years. He had been an invalid for a number of years, during which time his patience and forbearance was a constant marvel to his friends. The deceased leaves a brother, Henry Stoffer, of St. Louis, besides the daughter, Mrs. Chatwell. Funeral services were held from the family residence Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Odd Fellows. The Rev. J. David Arnold, pastor of the First Christian church officiated. Burial was in Forest Park cemetery."

AT THE GRAND

Jacksonville theatre goers had the opportunity Monday night of witnessing "The Bird of Paradise," one of Oliver Morosco's successful plays. The story is by Richard Walton Tully, well known to play goers, and deals with life on the Hawaiian Islands. The author lived for a long time there and so the story so beautifully told in "The Bird of Paradise" gives a truthful picture of South Sea Island life. It is a story of love and intrigue with tragedy closely interwoven. The intensity of the situations is relieved occasionally by lines less tense. The audience last night found the production at once interesting, artistic and intense.

Miss May Buckley, who was this year cast for Luana, the Hawaiian girl around whom the story is woven, proved herself entirely capable for that difficult role and a worthy successor to the well known stage folk who have essayed the part during the five years that "The Bird of Paradise" has been before the public. Forrest Stanley divided honors with Miss Buckley and the supporting company was in every way satisfactory.

It goes without saying that the music of "The Bird of Paradise" is a distinctive feature. The native Hawaiian singers and players have much to do with the success of the play. There is something both weird and sonorous in the Hawaiian music, something that suggests the very atmosphere of the far-away islands.

TAYLOR PLANNED FOR MURDER HE COMMITTED

SUCH WAS TESTIMONY AT CORONER'S INQUEST IN PEORIA MONDAY.

Mrs. Taylor Principal Witness at Hearing—After the Shooting Her Husband Kissed Her Farewell and Made His Getaway—Murderer Had Warned Roomers to Quit the House, that Something Was Going to Happen Later.

Chief of Police Davis went to Peoria Monday to accompany Mrs. Earl Taylor, who was permitted by the Peoria police to come to Jacksonville Saturday night after agreeing that she would return for the coroner's inquest. Mrs. Taylor was the principal witness at the inquest when the details surrounding the tragedy in which her husband shot and killed Mr. and Mrs. Leon Charvat were outlined. Chief of Police Davis had the added purpose of going to Peoria of aiding the police department there in any way possible. Peoria police have information they consider reliable that Taylor was seen in Carlinville, his old home, Sunday.

Perhaps the most important development of the inquest was the establishing of the fact that the murder was premeditated. This was shown by the testimony that five or six hours before the shooting occurred Taylor warned roomers in the house to vacate, saying that he had nothing against them and that they probably didn't want to get any notoriety. The following story of the inquest is from the Peoria Journal. Chief of Police Davis returned to Jacksonville last night as did Mrs. Taylor, accompanied by her sister.

While police officials Monday morning were making every effort to capture Earl Taylor, slayer of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Charvat, Coroner Eckhard's jury heard the testimony of a number of witnesses and returned a verdict recommending that Taylor be held for murder. Mrs. Pearl Taylor, wife of the murderer, was the principal witness at the inquest.

Police Superintendent Rhoades, with positive information that Taylor was in Carlinville, Ill., Sunday, where his brother-in-law resides, enlisted the aid of officials there and in nearby towns in an effort to apprehend the fugitive.

That Taylor was sober when he did the killing Saturday and that the deed was premeditated were other developments of the day.

Two separate verdicts were returned by the coroner's jury the only difference in them being the time of death. Mrs. Charvat's death is fixed at 12:05 p. m. Saturday and Mr. Charvat's at 12:10.

Kissed Wife Goodbye. Sobbing hysterically, Mrs. Taylor, took the stand before the coroner's jury Monday morning and told of the double killing.

Before Taylor left the scene of his crime he found his young wife hidden in a closet in a bedroom of the Charvat home, 109 First street, kissed her good-bye and made his getaway, according to her testimony.

Mrs. Taylor was given permission by Coroner E. M. Eckhard to go to her home in Jacksonville Sunday evening with the understanding that she be on hand for the hearing at 9 o'clock Monday morning. On her failure to appear, however, at the appointed time the police were notified.

Believes He Was Drugged. At 10 o'clock, however, she arrived at the coroner's office accompanied by her sister and Chief of Police G. P. Davis of Jacksonville.

"I think he must have been drugged, his eyes were so glassy," cried the little bride of but a year. "I never saw him look that way," she said of the last time she saw him before the shooting.

That Taylor had premeditated the murder was evidenced by the testimony of roomers at the Charvat home, that he had warned them to get out before he did the killing.

Both John Charvat, father of the murdered man, and Isaac Cripe of Cerro Gordo, Ill., father of the murdered woman, testified at the inquest.

In Peoria Four Weeks.

"How long have you been in Peoria with your husband, Mrs. Taylor?" asked Coroner E. M. Eckhard. "Four weeks Saturday night."

"When were you married?" "A year ago October 29."

"Any children?" "No."

"Had there been any trouble between your husband and the Charvats previous to Friday night?" "No."

"Did you have any trouble with your husband?" "On Friday night I wanted to go up town and he did not want me to."

"Did he take any money from you?" "I don't remember."

"Didn't you tell me that he took $5 from you?"

She Locked the Door. "I can't remember. It seems as if I've forgotten nearly everything since it all happened."

"Tell what happened." "Earl came in with his mouth bleeding Friday evening and said that he had got his in a saloon."

"Where did he spend the night?" "He was locked up about 11 o'clock and came home about quarter to six Saturday morning."

"Was there any trouble then?" "No. I got up and locked my door because I was so nervous."

"When did you next see him?" "He came back at 11:30 Saturday morning and went to bed. He got up in a little while and said he was going to get his pay. I said: 'Don't go Earl, you might get to drinking some more.' His eyes were so glassy I think he must have been drugged."

He Hid in a Closet. "I had gone out to dust a rug when Mrs. Charvat said: 'Earl is coming back. You had better hide.' I went into the closet in the bedroom of Mrs. Charvat. I got way back in the corner. Then I heard two shots."

"Did you hear him say anything?" "No. I didn't hear anything. After the shots it seemed as if I was crazy."

"Did you see him again?" "No."

"Didn't he come back and kiss you?" "It seems as if he did kiss me, but I don't remember when."

Mrs. Rose Bruner, who with her husband was the first on the scene after the shooting, told of events that preceded the tragedy.

"On Thursday, Taylor came home and refused to listen to his wife's plea for permission to go up town. She had some money. He slapped her and forced it from her."

"Mrs. Charvat said 'I won't stand for that. You can't act that way in my house.'"

Said He Would Get Gun. "Taylor staid home all day Thursday and had words with Mrs. Taylor."

"On Friday he came back, drinking. There was more trouble with his wife and he kept on drinking. He came back in the evening. We were all sitting at the table. He pointed his finger at Mrs. Charvat. 'Give me a gun,' he said. 'I haven't got any,' she replied. 'I'll go out and buy one—and I'll get you, too,' he said to her."

"He started out, then turned around and made for his wife. I stepped between them. 'Now, Earl don't do that,' I said. 'I wasn't afraid of him any more than Mrs. Charvat was.'"

"Mrs. Charvat then knocked him to the floor. He then went out with Mr. Charvat."

"When they returned there was more trouble. Taylor had been in a mixup at a saloon and hit. He said he was going to kill somebody. He struck Mr. Charvat. Mrs. Charvat knocked him down stairs, then."

Told Them to Leave. "He was arrested then. When he came back at about 5:30 Saturday morning he came to our room and asked my husband for a drink. Mr. Bruner said he didn't have one there and then he said 'I want to see you for your own good.' He told us to get out and then went and told Mrs. Mary Coffey the same."

"At 11:30 he was back again. He called my husband, then me."

"I like you folks, and I know you don't want any notoriety. So I want you to go out of this place."

"My husband said 'I don't see why I should.'"

"Mrs. Charvat and I were in my room at about 12:15 and Mrs. Taylor was out in the kitchen. Taylor came out of the saloon across the street. Mrs. Charvat called to Mrs. Taylor that her husband was coming. Mrs. Taylor said 'I'm going to hide.' She slipped into Mrs. Charvat's bedroom. I was washing. Taylor went upstairs first. Then he started to go out. He hadn't got any farther than the door when he said 'Where's Pearl?'"

"Mrs. Charvat said 'I don't know.'"

"You're a ———— Earl," he replied and shot."

"I heard Mrs. Charvat fall and heard her groan once."

Then Came Another Shot. "Then I heard him say to Mr. Charvat, 'Don't you come near me' and there was another shot. Mr. Charvat was in the kitchen and I didn't hear him fall."

"When I heard the second shot I shut my door and locked it. Taylor tried to get in. I didn't answer."

"His wife screamed when she heard the shots. He found her in the closet, made her come out and kissed her goodbye."

"Did you ever hear the Charvats make any threats against Taylor?" "Never. Mrs. Charvat was too good to him."

"Had there been any trouble before Taylor's wife came?" "None whatever."

"How long had Taylor lived with the Charvats?" "Three years."

"Was he jealous of his wife?" "I think he was."

"Do you believe he was angry at Mrs. Charvat in the belief that she was shielding his wife?" "No. I do not think so."

"Was he drunk at the time of the shooting?" "I don't think he was."

Believes Taylor Sober. Acting Sergeant of Police Thomas Brennan testified that he believed Taylor was sober when released from the jail Saturday morning.

"Mrs. Charvat talked to me over the telephone at about 11:20 Saturday morning," he said. "She said Taylor was down there threatening lives. I told her she should swear out a warrant but she said she did not want to do that. I then informed her that if he came back to call up and we would send down and arrest him."

"Did he have any weapon when searched at the police station?" "No."

"Have you been able to establish where he procured the gun?" continued the coroner.

"No, we cannot find out."

WATER SHORTAGE AGAIN ON HORIZON

Supply Is Very Low In Morgan Lake

More Wells Needed At North Side Station—Court House Rest Room Proposed At Council Session—Will Consult County Board.

A meeting of the city council Monday morning which did not promise much from a news standpoint, turned into an interesting session before the adjournment hour came, as various matters relating to the city welfare were presented. Report from Joshua Vasconcellos showed that the city water supply is in a very unsatisfactory condition and something must be done to increase the available supply before another season. The question now is as to whether the supply will be ample for this winter. Any one who visits Nichols park can see how very low the water is there and the supply from the north side station is not up to the average maintained thru the past several years.

Mayor Rodgers presented the matter of changing the pagoda in Central park to a rest room and later on suggested that an effort be made to have a rest room established in the basement of the court house. On motion of Mr. Martin, with a second by Mr. Cox, it was decided that the council will take this matter up at once with the county board. Early in the council session a communication was read signed by Mrs. Lillian Danskin as president of the Civic league inviting the council members to attend the annual meeting of the league which is to be held next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The address of the afternoon will be by Mrs. Harrison Monroe Brown, a suffragist speaker of prominence.

Water Flow Is Less.
For the water department Mr. Vasconcellos stated that another well is now being used at the north-side station as the repairs needed have been received. Speaking further he said, "We have taken out the pumps in all the wells and have seen that the working parts and the strainers are all in good condition, but the fact remains that we are not getting as much water as formerly nor as much as needed. I think the reason is because some of the wells are too close together and thus the flow is interfered with."

"When spring weather comes we certainly should put down at least three more wells and located at considerable distance from the wells now in service. The test holes put down indicate there is plenty of water if we can get the necessary wells. The water at the lake is very low. We are not pumping from it now as much as we did a week or two since. For some reason the supply in the creek has increased and we have been pumping from there. The only way we can explain it is that the water from the recent rains has just gone down in the ground to the depth which takes it to the tiles and the supply has thus been getting into the creek. The lake does not seem to hold as much as formerly as the basin has filled up to a considerable extent and the demand for an increased source of supply is serious and insistent."

The Paving Cases.
"Mayor Rodgers referred to the paving cases which have been held up pending a settlement of the Jacksonville rate case. He said that he didn't know what was being done about this case but unless a settlement was reached this week he thought that the hearing on West State street which had been delayed should be taken up again. He said if a settlement was not reached very soon a decision would be expected anyhow from the supreme court on cases previously taken there. There is every reason for the expectation that a hearing will be given in December."

The bid of Simcon, Fernandes for constructing sidewalks on East State street in front of properties where the owners refuse to do the work was accepted. Mr. Martin referred to the need of pavement on East State street from Johnson street to the city limits. He said the roadway there is in bad condition the greater part of the year and is so low at the end of the street car track that the rails project in a way very dangerous for travel. It is probable that the paving there will be included in the public improvement projected later on.

Rest Room Project.
Mr. Widmayer referred to repair work needed on the Central Park walks and from this discussion came the consideration of the public rest room question. Mayor Rodgers said he had noticed in the paper that women from the country clubs were going to ask the council for some action along this line. He expressed the idea that if the pagoda was raised two or two and a half feet that a rest room could be provided in the lower part and the upper part remain just as it is for speaking or concert purposes. Mr. Widmayer and Mr. Cox did not think this could be done without marring the appearance of the structure. Mr. Vasconcellos said it could be broadened at the base but he did not think this practical.

Mayor Rodgers said the proper place for a rest room is in the court house basement, where there is ample space with heat already provided. He advocated two rooms, one at the southwest corner and the other at the southeast corner, both with outside entrances which could be easily provided by changing windows into doorways. The only expense would be in putting in floor, beaver board or hard pine side walls and the necessary plumbing. There is precedent for such a project as Pittsfield, Clinton and Springfield are among the cities where rest room facilities are part of the court house equipment. All of the commissioners looked upon this project favorably and Mr. Martin and Mr. Cox made the motion that the council take the matter up with the county board at once and endeavor to have the rooms installed.

The matter of excessive loads of coal was again brought up. Mr. Cox saying that the coal scattered on the pavements meant a loss for the consumers and was injurious. Mayor Rodgers said that he would give the matter attention this week and would call for a meeting of team owners. The council then adjourned.

The Clarke's Chapel Aid society will hold a bazaar and supper beginning at 6 p. m., Wednesday evening, November 22nd, at the residence of Mr. Jed Cox.

PRINCE OF PEACE MUST SETTLE LABOR TROUBLES

Rev. W. E. Spoonst at Northminster Points to Real Solution of Differences Between Capital and Labor.

At Northminster church Sunday evening Rev. Walter E. Spoonst delivered a sermon dealing particularly with the problems of labor, laboring men of the city being invited as special guests for the evening. The minister saw much to condemn in the attitude of many toward the laboring man, and said that the want of sympathy with labor in its humbler forms and the lack of feeling for the weak and oppressed were conditions which retarded many movements begun in the behalf of labor. He expressed the conviction that labor can never put an end to the strife existing in the world today, for it will never be possible to force capital to meet the demand of labor, and legislation will not be the means by which peace will be restored between the two factions. The spirit which Christ personified, he said, would be the power which would bring harmony and content in the industrial world.

NEW DEMURRAGE RULES ARE APPROVED

The interstate commerce commission has given approval of the proposal to increase the demurrage charges in the expectation that this shortage will help relieve the present car shortage. Under present rules a shipper has forty-eight hours after receipt of a car for unloading it and thereafter must pay $1 a day. The new rules which go into effect December 1 on some roads and December 10 on others, provide for forty-eight hours free time, $2 for the first day thereafter, $3 for the second day, $4 for the third day, $5 for the fourth day and each day thereafter. It is believed that the adoption of these rules will speedily result in shippers redoubling their efforts to unload cars within the forty eight hours of free time.

MIKADO GIVEN BY CAPABLE COMPANY

Stratford Operatic Company Furnished First Attraction at Liberty Hall.

The opening number of the lecture course under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus was given in Liberty hall Monday evening before a large audience.

The attraction was the Stratford Operatic company in "The Mikado." The opera is the best of the many good ones that Gilbert and Sullivan wrote and is filled with many tuneful airs. The airs never grow old and last night they sounded as good as they did twenty years ago when we first heard them.

While the Mikado contains many numbers of excellence it takes musical ability of no small degree to sing them. The members of the Stratford company proved equal to all of the demands made upon them.

Harry Davies, tenor, had a voice of unusual range and clearness and sang the exacting role of Nanki Poo with good understanding. He also proved his versatility by singing the numbers assigned to the character of Pooh-Bah. Miss Lulu Hatfield Solomon revealed a splendid soprano voice in the role of Yum Yum while Anna Stares as Katisha sang the role splendidly as well as acting it with intelligence. Harry Lombard sang the role of Ko-Ko in a pleasing manner. The work of F. Duddleigh Vernor as accompanist rounded out a pleasant evening's entertainment.

If the Stratford Operatic company can be taken as an indication of other numbers to follow in the course patrons are assured of excellent entertainment in the remaining numbers.

UNION SCHOOL HOUSE IS NORTHWEST OF CITY

Buildings and Grounds in Good Condition — Miss Nelle DeLaney Teacher This Year.

We have all heard many times that "In union there is strength," and that will hold good today as well as when it was first said and the name for the school some four or five miles northwest of the city is well chosen for the North Union school is a united body if not very large. The building is pleasantly situated on a small hill with an ample playground and it is truly delightful to notice the fine, natural forest trees that adorn it. The site was well chosen and would that more of the school buildings in the county were thus fortunately situated with regard to trees and ample surrounding grounds. The worthy people of that district really do not realize what they have in the location of their school building and it must be an education to the pupils and all else having anything to do with the plant.

During a recent visit to the school by the writer he found all the pupils present the day was somewhat cold and stormy but the little folks manifested much interest in the caller and his message. The teacher, Miss Nelle DeLaney, received the visitor with great courtesy and at once placed the school and children at his disposal. He told them he had come to have a nice, friendly talk with them about a hand far away and they evinced much interest in all he had to offer. They manifested intelligent appreciation of what was told them and gave evidence that they understood very well the remarks made.

Miss DeLaney said her numbers would undoubtedly increase as she was certain a number of larger pupils would attend as soon as corn husking was over. Meanwhile with her little half score she is pursuing her way with zeal and industry.

A very pleasing feature of the work done in the school is map drawing which is done in a capable manner by the older pupils. They use various colored pencils and make quite accurate outlines of the states of the union the most or the ones now in attendance are rather small. A glance about the room was certainly gratifying. The windows have all been arranged according to law, a modern heating and ventilating plant has been installed and the day was on hand soon after the opening of school the room became so warm that windows had to be lowered a few minutes.

A cabinet organ enables the teacher to aid in musical efforts while over her desk are small pictures of Lincoln and Washington and she said it was the intention to have an entertainment of some kind soon to buy some larger and better pictures. The assortment of maps is very good and the only physiological chart the writer has seen was shown by the teacher with pardonable pride. The library is supplied with a Webster's unabridged dictionary, a reference encyclopedia and a goodly number of books. In short, for complete equipment this school rather leads any yet visited. The room is not very large as the children in the district are few but it is comfortable, supplied with the latest and best in seats, blackboard and the like.

The directors are Messrs Edward Patterson, Louis Myers and George Morris.

The pupils now attending are: Gertrude Baptist, Irene Baptist, Russell Baptist, Earl Patterson, Harold Patterson, Helen Patterson, Earl Johnson, Mary Meyer, Helen Meyer and Vera Todd.

COMMISSION SUSPENDS INCREASE IN TARIFF

Proposal to Increase Demurrage Charges up Until March 31.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Tariffs filed by railroads in official southern and western classifications territories, proposing increased demurrage charges to check the freight car shortage, were suspended by the interstate commerce commission until March 31st.

The present demurrage charge of practically all roads is $1.00 per day after free time allowance. Following the general complaint of acute shortage of equipment in all sections of the country, railroads began filing tariffs providing for increased charges for demurrage to facilitate the release of cars by shippers. The shippers protested as they did on a previous occasion when an increased demurrage charge was proposed. The commission now has suspended the new rates pending further investigation.

The proposed tariffs would provide after the usual time allowance charges of $2 for the first day or fraction $3.00 for the second day, $4.00 for the third day and $5.00 for the fourth and each succeeding day.

SUB-COMMITTEE BEGINS WORK ON ESTIMATES

Heaviest In History To Be Presented to Congress This Winter

Navy Department 1918 Figures Show Total Appropriation of $379,151,701—Daniels Awards Armoryplate Contract for Four Battleships—Department Recommends Installation of Anti-Aircraft Guns.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—While Secretary Daniels was awarding contracts today for armorplate for the four battleships authorized at the last session of congress and approving plans for an ammunition ship, the last vessel designed for the 1917 building program, the appropriation sub-committee of the house naval committee began work on the 1918 estimates, the heaviest in American history to be presented to congress this winter. The navy department's 1918 figures, contemplate construction of half of the ships yet to be built in the great three year program show total appropriations of $379,151,701, or more than $66,000,000 in excess of the record total appropriated last summer.

Contracts for the armorplate which will go on the Colorado, Maryland, Washington and West Virginia, were awarded to the Bethlehem and Carnegie Steel companies, each receiving half of the work. A statement analyzing the contracts says that despite the unprecedented European demand for plate the price were approximately the same as those paid three years ago when the Pennsylvania was being constructed.

The department estimates before the house sub-committee call for funds to begin construction of three battleships, one battle cruiser, three scout cruisers, sixteen destroyers, four fleet submarines, fourteen coast submarines, one submarine tender and one destroyer tender.

Cost Has Greatly Increased. Rear-Admiral Strauss, chief of ordnance appeared before the sub-committee. Explaining an item in his estimates of $1,500,000 for fleet ammunition he said the cost of projectiles and other ordnance material has increased that much since congress provided $13,000,000 for the purpose last year.

Prices of small shells, he said, were going down, indicating a decreasing demand from Europe, but large shells of the four-inch size used by the navy showed a 20 percent increase over last year's quotations.

At another point Admiral Strauss outlined the department's scheme for storing in navy yards guns and ammunition with which to equip merchant steamers as naval auxiliaries in time of war. More than $3,000,000 for the purchase of guns and mounting for this purpose was provided last year and this year the department seeks $1,500,000 for armament.

Recommends Anti-Aircraft Guns.

The department also has recommended the installation of anti-aircraft guns at naval stations, magazines and radio stations, the pending estimates providing $1,000,000 for this purpose. It will take more than 100 of the navy's three-inch, 50 calibre guns for this purpose.

Admiral Strauss said the naval gun factory was now producing torpedoes the first delivered, however, exceeded in cost the prices quoted by private manufacturers. It is expected that the factory will get its costs considerably below the commercial rate with its next delivery.

Plans for Ammunition Ship.

The ammunition ship for which the secretary approved plans is the first craft of the kind ever designed for the navy. She will have a displacement of 10,000 tons with a cargo of powder and shells. Special facilities are provided for handling explosives aboard and the holds will be equipped with cooling facilities to insure the regulation temperature. Large refrigeration space will make her equally convertible into a supply vessel.

Propelling machinery is designed for either coal or fuel oil. A defensive armament includes four 3-inch anti-aircraft guns. Bids are being asked from ship builders and the department hopes to be able to open them by the first of the year.

Secretary Daniels said today he had arranged to confer with representatives of the Electric Boat company in an effort to seek modifications of their present submarine bids. This company offered to construct 24 or more submarines, deliveries to begin with 25 months and proposed at much higher cost to have the deliveries begin within fifteen months.

The department is determined to place the submarine construction on not more than a 22 months basis and will urge the Electric company to agree to this.

Representatives of the Seattle Construction and Drydock company also will confer with the department officials Wednesday. This company, submitted the only proposal that came within the law for the construction of a scout cruiser. With the contract for one scout cruiser given to the Seattle company, the department still faces the problem of placing the construction of a cruiser and run on the business principles that make a circus successful. The management of the bazaar intend to spend more than $25,000 in advertising alone. Columns of advertising space will be contracted for in more than 100 daily newspapers, and the whole of New England from Maine to Connecticut will be billed with posters.

PRESIDENT WILSON COMPLETES MESSAGE

Will Put Finishing Touches on Annual Message to Congress Today

Washington, Nov. 20.—President Wilson practically completed his next annual message to congress today and plans to put the finishing touches on it tomorrow. It will be devoted almost entirely to domestic matters and will deal primarily with legislative questions recommended to congress previously and not finally settled.

The principal items in the message are understood to be railroad legislation to meet the situation created by the threatened railroad strike last August, a measure to allow American exporters to form common selling agencies abroad, conservation bills, a corrupt practice measure and the Porto Rico bill.

Governor Arthur Yager of Porto Rico was at the white house today and expects to see the president within a few days to urge that action on the Porto Rico bill be taken before the usual Christmas recess of congress. Governor Yager said that until the bill is passed giving citizenship to Porto Ricans agitation for the independence of the island will continue.

TO PUT RAILROAD EARNINGS INTO RECORD

Commissioner's Announcement Follows Grand Trunk Representatives' Advocacy of Increased Freight Rates.

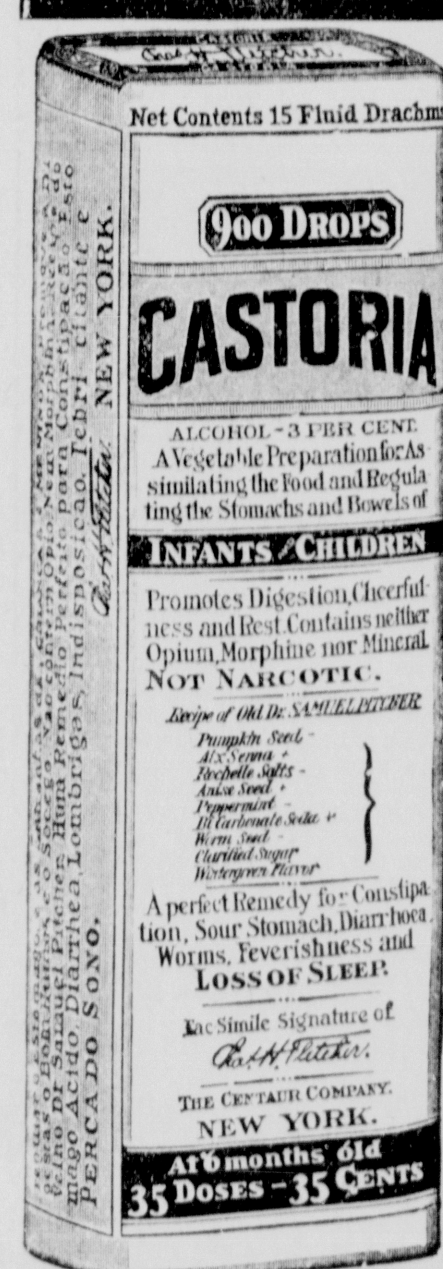

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 20.—Commissioner C. C. McChord of the interstate commerce commission announced late today that it was his purpose to put into the record a table of the net and gross earnings of all the railroads of the United States during the last fifteen years. His announcement followed a statement by O. F. Clark, general superintendent of the Grand Trunk lines within the United States advocating an increase in freight rates, the proceeds to be used by the railroads in the purchase of equipment and in making other betterments. Mr. Clark was the first representative of any of the Canadian roads, whose lines cross into the United States to appear at the present hearings. A majority of the questions put to him were calculated to show the situation of that road as regards coal car equipment.

Of this class of cars, Mr. Clark testified, the Grand Trunk has on its lines approximately 200 per cent of its ownership.

This large excess he said had been drawn northward as the result of large shipments of coal, and munitions for export.

GIRLS! HAVE WAVY, THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Save Your Hair! Double Its Beauty In a Few Moments—Try This!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Dandruffine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fatten, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's dandruff at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Dandruffine. If eventually—why not now?—Adv.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE

(By Associated Press.)

Manila, P. I., Nov. 20.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The signing of the Jones bill, as the Philippine measure is known locally, was the occasion yesterday of a big parade in which Filipinos of all classes joined, to show their joy at the signing of the measure granting greater autonomy to the Philippine people. The parade marched through the principal streets of the city and to Malacanang Palace, the private residence of Governor General Harrison where the chief executive and officials of the insular government reviewed it.

Arrived at Malacanang, Alacade Roxas, mayor of the city of Manila, a Filipino, delivered an address thanking the American people for the grant of autonomy made in the Philippine bill. Two silver tablets, dedicated to President Wilson and Governor General Harrison, were presented to the chief executive on behalf of the Filipino people. The first read:

"President Wilson:
"May God bless the hand, which, upon signing the Jones bill, extends to the Philippine Islands the benefits of a new government based not on ill-feelings, but on mutual understanding, and consecrated to the preparation of the Filipino people for the greater and more lasting blessings of complete liberty and independence."
"September 1, 1916."

"The City of Manila."
It was after receiving these tablets that Governor General Harrison addressed the assemblage. He said:

"We are here to dedicate our feelings of gratitude to those who have led in the prolonged endeavor to secure this legislation—to Resident Commissioners Quezon and Earnshaw, to Representative Jones and Senator Hitchcock, and to all the other friends in and out of congress who have given without reserve and with unshaken resolution the best that in them lay to bring about the passage of this law."

"This is a day of celebration in which I am very happy to share. With many of you present I have worked unceasingly and to the best of my ability for the passage of the Philippine legislation. Our task here in the islands has been to prepare the situation for the new form of government now sanctioned by the new law. The president instructed me to announce his policy upon my arrival three years ago and now the congress of the United States has given official approval on behalf of the people of our country to the policy thus enunciated."

"The struggle to secure the enactment of this has been very severe; I doubt whether any political campaign of recent times has been attended with so much misrepresentation and abuse as we have received from those determined to secure indefinite retention of the islands. But now that congress has acted, I am confident that this campaign of opposition will come to an end, and that all elements in the community will acquiesce cheerfully in obedience to the will of congress. It is time, my friends, for all who have the best interests of the Philippines at heart to recognize that congress has now definitely settled the question of the future of these islands, and all should celebrate with us the termination of the debate."

"With generosity and unselfishness almost unparalleled in history, the United States congress has promised the ultimate independence of the Philippines. We know that this solemn pledge on behalf of the people of the United States will be redeemed—there will be no turning back—every step hereafter will be forward."

"The Filipino people will now assume very great responsibility. Their friends all over the world will watch with keenest interest the operations of this new government. Their patience, dignity and self-restraint during these recent years, throughout the trying months when their future was being debated in the United States, in all the days of temporary disappointment, are an earnest of their wisdom and character in the day to come."

Panama, Nov. 20.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—A bill in the National Assembly of Panama to pay $12,350, gold, to the estate of Ralph W. Davis, of Los Angeles, killed in a riot on July 4, 1912, when Panama police fired with rifles on unarmed Americans, and to settle other claims of Americans wounded at the time, will apparently settle, after four years, what has been a touchy matter between Americans and Panamanians. Indignation ran high among the Americans on the Canal Zone at the time of the tragedy, and this was not palliated by the failure of the Panama authorities to press investigation and take action against guilty parties. The belief has been widespread that the assault on the Americans found substantial favor among the Panamanians, and the delays in getting action by pressure from the United States caused many expressions of disgust and lack of faith in the Government's inclination to protect Americans.

It was in the investigation of this case that Judge Demosthenes Arosemena of the Criminal Court delivered an opinion which was an harangue against Americans and their soldiers, and found that one of the Panamanian police was at fault. This one had been dead a month at the time the opinion was delivered. This action on the part of Judge Arosemena was one of the circumstances prompting the American Minister to protest recently against his appointment as Attorney General.

By persistence the American Minister caused the Panamanian Government to admit the fault of its police and to promise indemnity. It demanded, however, that the amount of indemnity should not be fixed by the American government, but should be arbitrated. It proposed that one of the diplomats accredited to Panama should act as arbitrator. The United States agreed to the arbitration but not to a local arbitrator. In consequence, agreement was reached to submit the case to the Minister of The Netherlands in Washington, who is also accredited to Panama. His award was for the payment, in all, of $12,500, and the bill has been introduced to comply with his decision. It passed the first reading unanimously.

In addition to Davis, who was a civilian, and had recently come into the city from a prospecting trip in Panama Private Harry Morris known also as Maurice and Morrissey, of the Tenth Infantry, was killed, dying on July 9 of wounds received on the fourth. Nine other Americans were wounded. In the investigation, the point has been raised that Morrissey was not an American citizen. This matter has not been settled, but no award is included in the decision of the arbitrator.

London, Nov. 20.—The new early shop-closing regulation has dealt many people a decided shock. The smoker who finds himself unexpectedly without cigars, the candy eater, overtaken with a late craving for something sweet, and the workman who wants to send out for a sandwich, is surprised and angry when he discovers that such indulgences are barred.

After eight o'clock on all nights except Saturdays it is impossible to buy anything except meals and drink. The cigar stores and the candy shops must close but restaurants may remain open, and in London people may crowd up to the bars and buy drinks until half-past nine. But the public houses cannot sell tobacco after eight. Nor can restaurants put very confectionery or cigars in any but those consuming meals on the premises. Discussion over what constitutes a meal is waged in the newspapers. Is a sandwich a meal? And if one sandwich is not a meal, how many would constitute a meal? One cigar may be bought with a meal and lighted on the premises, and therefore smokers may sometimes be driven to buy a meal for the sake of a cigar. Hence the importance of this point.

AMERICAN AVIATORS RETURN FOR VISIT

Assert Americans on French Front Have Brought Down Twenty-One German Aeroplanes.

New York, Nov. 20.—American aviators fighting with the French forces on the western front have brought down a total of twenty-one German aeroplanes, according to Lieutenant William Thaw, a member of the Franco-American aviation corps, who arrived here today on the Steamship La Touraine for a three week's visit among relatives. Lieutenant Thaw was accompanied by C. C. Johnson, also an American aviator, whose home is in New York. Both aviators talked with Norman Prince just prior to his going on what proved to be his last flight. They say he volunteered back to the French lines after an air engagement and in alighting his machine struck some telegraph wires, turning over and Prince received injuries which resulted in his death.

RAPID UNLOADING WOULD SOLVE CAR SHORTAGE

Raising of Demurrage Rates Has Little Effect in Freeing Cars.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Witnesses before the Illinois Public Utilities commission agreed today that the car shortage problem would be solved if a means could be reached to force consignees to unload their cars quickly. History has shown, according to some of the testimony that raising of the demurrage rates has little effect in freeing cars.

W. H. Kitchford of the Western Demurrage and Inspection Bureau was the first witness at the hearing which is on the application of Illinois roads for a demurrage rate of $2 for the first day, $3 for the third, $4 for the fourth and $5 for each day thereafter. The present rate is $1 a day after 48 hours free time. The car shortage would disappear in four days if consignee followed their cars promptly he said.

The suggestion by counsel for the Chicago association of commerce that demurrage rates be made reciprocal upon shipper and consignee will be discussed when the hearing is resumed tomorrow.

HOLDING OR SELLING CORN

(Wallace Farmer).

In view of the high prices reached for corn, the investigation conducted by the Illinois experiment station in the matter of prices and shrinkage of farm grains becomes of especial interest. The results of this investigation are reported in Bulletin No. 183, issued in November, 1915.

The investigation covered the ten-year period from 1904 to 1913, inclusive. During this period the average price of corn each month, on the Chicago market, beginning with November, was as follows:

November	58.3 cents
December	55.7 cents
January	52.0 cents
February	52.5 cents
March	54.4 cents
April	57.2 cents
May	63.3 cents
June	60.3 cents
July	62.1 cents
August	64.2 cents
September	63.6 cents
October	60.5 cents

If the averages for the ten-year period in question could be depended upon as reflecting conditions year by year, then, if corn sells for 85 cents in November, it would sell for 81 cents in December, 75 cents in January, 77 cents in February, 79 cents in March, 83 cents in April, 87 cents in May, 87 cents in June, 90 cents in July, and 93 cents in August.

Beginning in 1903, the Illinois station started an experiment to determine the rate of shrinkage in ear corn. Each year, about 300 bushels were hauled direct from the field, and placed in an open crib, protected by a tight roof and slat sides. Four times each month the crib and its contents were weighed to determine the shrinkage; and the average of these four weighings was taken as a monthly average from which to com-

FARM NOTES

Mrs. Martha Harper, 104 years old, of Trevillian station, Va., widow of Rev. George H. Harper, who served as a private in Capt. James Ramplsey's company of Maryland militia in the war of 1812, has notified the state fair management that she intends to enter for exhibition "a very fine bedspread" which she made in 1832. Mrs. Harper says she is the only surviving woman pensioner of the war of 1812.

There will be married tomorrow in Evanston, Ill., a pretty young woman who is not likely to warn her pretty daughters twenty years from now against the profession of model. Miss Ruth J. Baecker, who will become tomorrow the wife of Ferny R. Harris, a well-to-do business man of Austin, Minn., earned her living by having her beautiful face and eye-like features photographed framed by the latest fashions in Paris hats and gowns, for the advertising circulars of a large Chicago firm. Mr. Harris, saw these, came to Chicago, made the acquaintance of the members of the firm and finally secured an introduction to the charming original, who proved even more delightful to him upon solid acquaintance than upon her pictured one. Tomorrow's ceremony tells what happened.

Catherine Vaughn McCulloch of Evanston, who is to be one of the presidential electors on Democratic ticket in Illinois, is the first woman so recognized in the history of either of the historic parties. She is a lawyer by profession and was educated at Rockford College and at the Northwestern University law school. Admitted to the Illinois bar in 1886, and to the supreme court of the United States in 1898, she has steadily won for herself a high reputation for ability and character. For many years she was in charge of the legislative work of the equal suffragists of the state, and legal adviser of the national organization. Years ago she became a justice of the peace and exercised the functions of a judge. She is much interested in religious and philanthropic activities, and writes freely and powerfully.

Mrs. Samuel B. Vetter of Paintsville, Ky., shared the honors this year with Mrs. William K. Dick, who was Mrs. John Jacob Astor, in the front row romantic widows who renounced huge fortunes to marry the man they loved. The name is not so well known. Mrs. Vetter gave up a sum twice the size of that given up by Mrs. Astor to become Mrs. Dick, which was approximately estimated at $5,000,000. Mrs. Vetter was the widow of John C. Mayo, whose coal, mineral and lumber properties were valued at $20,000,000 at his death two years ago. This estate was left entire to Mrs. Mayo in case she did not marry, and with the stipulation that upon her remarriage a half of it should immediately revert to her two children of ten and fourteen years. Her remarriage to Dr. Samuel B. Vetter of Portsmouth, Ohio, recently took place. The couple will live in Paintsville in a mansion bequeathed to Mrs. Vetter by her first husband.

THE FARMERS CLUB

An early meeting of the Morgan County Farmers Club is now being talked about. Because of the exceptionally fine weather corn shucking and other fall work on the farm has advanced with more than usual pace the monthly shrinkage. As the result of nine years' experimentation in this manner, the monthly average shrinkage was found to be as follows: December, 1.93 per cent; January, 1.90; February, 1.32; March, 1.47; April, 3.04; May, 3.11; June, 2.19; July, .86; August, .46.

The table shown at the bottom of this page indicates the price necessary each month to compensate for shrinkage. The left-hand column shows the November price, and the column under each month shows the price at which corn must sell to enable the holder to come out even with the November price. In other words, when corn is worth 76 cents in November, the man who holds it should get 77 cents in December, 78.8 cents in January, 79.3 cents in February, and so on.

If it were not for the conditions brought by the war in Europe, we would be disposed to regard the ten-year period used by the Illinois experiment station as a fair representative period. The war, however, has tended to upset prices of grains to some extent, not only in setting them considerably higher, but in disturbing relative prices month by month. This year, for a month, past, corn prices have evidently been tremendously affected by the serious shortage of wheat. Last week corn took a jump of five cents, evidently due to liberal buying for export. We do not undertake to predict whether corn will remain at the present level, or go higher, or drop lower. That is something each must determine for himself. However, the figures on shrinkage which we have reported will serve to help our readers to estimate about how much they will lose from this source in case they should feel like holding their corn for possibly still higher prices.

rapidly and there is no reason why meetings of the club cannot now be well attended. Conditions were different last year when the weather interfered seriously with the fall farm work. One of the questions certain to be considered is as to whether farmers can profitably feed live stock at the present high prices of corn and other grain. To many farmers a hog market which does not offer higher levels than that now existing does not seem attractive when new corn is worth from 85c upward and old corn from $1 to $1.05. It takes the best methods of feeding to get value out of corn at such prices when it is fed to hogs.

High Priced Feeds.
Many farmers do not believe it is possible to feed profitably on any such basis but they are confronted with the condition that they have spring pigs that are not really as heavy as they should be and fall pigs that cannot be marketed. For this reason many farmers are in a position that they must feed high priced grain and so they are hoping for unusually high prices early in the coming year. Many livestock men are confident that a 12c price will be reached in January or February and if this prophecy proves to hold true then the farmer who has been feeding 50c and $1 corn can get his money back and show a reasonable profit. The same thing that is bothering the farmer who has hogs applies to dairymen. The high prices for corn, wheat and oats are reflected in the various mill feeds and dairymen and farmers who are selling butter fat, cream or milk at present prices declare that there is little or no profit in the business. If every cow they had was a different producer the result would be different, but in every herd herabout there are strippers and cows of only moderate quality which must be taken into account in figuring the general result. Just at the present time the farmer without livestock to feed is in better position than the one with a lot of livestock which must be fed grain. That is only a few months' conditions and a few months' conditions will probably be remedied farming will again be the most profitable and satisfactory.

Can Send a Calf.
One interesting consideration in connection with present high prices for grain is that farmers can expect a considerable cut in prices and can stand these reductions. Corn and wheat can be raised even on high priced Illinois land to sell profitably at considerably lower figures than those which the market now commands. So while lower prices later on are a certainty, there is no occasion for gloom or apprehension yet among farmers, for they can sell on these lower levels and still have their business on a good basis.

Corn Yield Below Estimates.
The high price for corn seems to be based on actual demand and an actual shortage. There does not seem to be even the suspicion that a corner in the market exists. The government crop reports all along have shown a shortage and Morgan county farmers who have gathered the corn crop are willing to testify that the government reports are correct. In many fields in this county where corn was down as a result of a wind storm but seemingly not damaged, there were reports of 40 to 60 bushels to the acre, but as shucking has progressed it has been found in almost every instance that these estimates were far out of line and that the yield instead of 40 to 60 bushels has been 20 to 35. It is, therefore, especially gratifying to the farmer who has his yield cut almost in two when compared with his expectation, to know that the crop can be sold at prices almost double those which normally prevail at this season of the year.

CORN ALONE AS FEED FOR HOGS

With new corn selling from 80 to 90 cents per bushel it behooves every farmer to see that the corn he is feeding his hogs is returning him that amount of money or more in the way of gain of pork.

Corn lacks protein and mineral matter. Being extremely rich in carbohydrates, starch and sugar, corn is naturally low in protein. Carbohydrate is that portion of the feed that produces fat, while protein goes to build up bone, muscle, blood and tissue. Hogs require a balanced ration, or the combination of feeds furnishing crude protein, carbohydrate and fat in the proportion and amounts that may be used by the animal for quickest and most economical gains.

It therefore becomes necessary, and more so this year than common because of the chaffiness of corn, to supplement it with some feed being rich in protein. When feeding corn alone a certain per cent of the carbohydrates are wasted as the hog is able to use only a certain amount in proportion to the amount of protein contained in the corn, or in other words when feeding corn alone the hog must, in order to get the amount of protein required for its development, consume a much greater amount of feed than should be necessary if the ration were balanced.

Tankage, oil meal, soy bean meal and milk are feeds rich in protein and are excellent supplements for corn.

Tankage Valuable.
When feeding hogs for the market where corn is to be the principal feed to be used any one of the above high protein feeds may be used with excellent results.

The value of tankage for example as a supplement to corn has been demonstrated by most of our experiment stations and by experience of our best feeders on the farm. In a feeding experiment with hogs weighing 100 pounds or more at the Indiana experiment station, 100 pounds of tankage, when forming 9 per cent of the ration replaced 555 pounds of corn, while at the Iowa station with older hogs the same ration replaced 359 pounds of corn. In other words 100 pounds of tankage replaced 5 to 7 1/2 bushels of corn. With pigs weighing less than 100 pounds, however, it is best to increase the per cent of tankage while with heavy weight hogs or those of mature growth the per cent of tankage may be materially decreased with good results.

Successful With Sweet Clover.
For many years sweet clover was considered a dangerous weed, but it has since been shown that it is a good plant to add richness to the soil. Clyde Hembrough, southeast of the city, sowed thirty acres in oats, a bushel to the acre and three pounds of sweet clover at the same time. The oats were harvested about the first of July and at that time the clover was eight inches high. After the oats were removed the clover was left until the first of September and then forty-two head of cattle and a car of hogs were turned in upon it. The stock began to gain at once, although many have said that hogs and cattle would not eat sweet clover.

As soon as the warm days came in the spring and the frost went out of the ground, the clover began to appear and in three days the field was covered with a solid green. Plowing was then begun for corn, but before the field was finished the clover was a foot and a half high. The corn was planted about May 30 and is now being gathered. It will average fifty bushels to the acre. In the adjoining field the average is thirty-five bushels. This yield was secured during the present bad corn year and Mr. Hembrough thinks is ample demonstration of the value of sweet clover as a fertilizer crop.

Cattle Feeding and Gambling.
Feeding steers is a gamble. Might as well play poker. Such statements are common from men who have had experience in steer feeding, and it is presumed that they in some way are sufficiently acquainted with the well-known game of chance to make their comparison fair. We would like to ask in what business there is not some chance. The wheat grower does not know from one year to another how he is coming out; nor does the groceryman, the lawyer, the doctor, the manufacturer, and so on. Even the preacher and the county adviser are never quite sure of holding the good will of the people they serve. And alongside the oft-repeated assertion that cattle feeding is a gamble comes more or less regularly "If we could only be assured a reasonable profit on the cattle we feed!" That is a short-sighted wish, and in practice would be destructive of its own ends. Suppose by some unseen means cattle feeders were assured reasonable profits on the steers they handled. It would be the only "profits assured" business in the whole world, and would immediately attract not only all farmers who grow corn but others who have experienced the uncertainty of the business they have tackled. It doesn't take a very strenuous struggle in any one's thinking apparatus to guess the outcome. We wish some cattle shippers of many years' experience would tell us whether there are really more radical daily and weekly spreads in market prices nowadays than there were some few years ago when cattle feeding was in better standing than it now is. Of course the higher prices of cattle and feeds make such changes more felt than they used to be. It is not our argument that cattle feeding is very attractive at this time, but it won't hurt us to think as nearly straight as we can and not follow assertions that only scratch the surface of the situation. —The Farmer's Review, Chicago.

Stock Cattle Prospects

A. A. Curry, who ranks as one of the most successful livestock men in the county, said yesterday that he expects to follow his usual plan of buying very thin stock cattle, putting them on grass and sending them to the market in the early summer. This year, because of the unusual conditions, Mr. Curry will probably buy cattle earlier than is his custom. Ordinarily he does not ship the cattle in until February or possibly later but he believes that this year on account of high prices of all classes of feed that the market opportunities of buying large number of thin cattle of good quality will come earlier than usual.

Straw and all kinds of roughage is high in price along with grains, but Mr. Curry believes that the farmer who has a good supply of roughage and who has the nerve will find it profitable to rough cattle thru the winter season and then put them on good grass in the spring. He cannot see why prices will not be good for this class of stock during the summer months as a shortage is more than likely because of the tendency of farmers and livestock men generally to rush their cattle to market rather than give them any kind of feed during the winter months. In Mr. Curry's view the farmer who does not have a plentiful supply of roughage and is compelled to feed corn is acting wisely in selling off his stock for when corn is worth 85c or upward it is practically impossible to get the money out of it in feeding this class of cattle.

Mr. Curry believes from his experience that the method of feeding he follows is more profitable than in feeding fat cattle, especially with corn at present prices. He gives the grass cattle a little corn during the weeks just before they go to market but this is a very different matter from feeding them corn during the entire period. On the Curry farm near Peoria there are this year 400 acres of corn and the work of shucking is well in progress. Already about 19,000 bushels have been put in the crib and there is still more space available. When all the crib room has been utilized the remainder will be sold at the prevailing market price.

Hunters Sometimes Careless.
P. J. Wolfe, living three miles south of Jacksonville, said yesterday he had an illustration of the reason farmers object to sportsmen from farm tramping thru their fields. Saturday morning two or six men with guns looking for rabbits appeared at his farm and although he does not like to have hunters there he permitted them to pass on thru. When they went to an adjoining farm the owner warned them away and they went back to the Wolfe farm. It was not long afterward that Mr. Wolfe noticed smoke and hurried out to where the men were last seen and to get the grass on fire. Before he could extinguish the flames two or three acres of clover had been destroyed. It was very plain that the sportsmen after starting the fire made their get away instead of seeking to prevent damage.

Annoyance of this kind is only one of several which has come to farmers who allow hunters to indiscriminately tramp over their farms. Losses of livestock are quite frequent from stray bullets and fires often happen just as was true on Mr. Wolfe's farm. Probably before the season is much further advanced farmers will unite in various localities just as they have in former years and issue a common warning to hunters to keep off of their properties.

COMMUNICATION FROM MR. BREWER

My Republicanism dates back to the beginning of the party. I was born in 1860, the year that Abe Lincoln was elected, and from the time I can remember I have never known anything but Republicanism. My first work for the party was in 1880, three months before I was old enough to vote. I had made an active canvass of the precinct in which I lived and organized a young man's club of fifty who worked and voted for Garfield for president. In 1884 I lived at Alexander and took an active part in the campaign for Blaine and Logan and the entire republican ticket.

In 1887 I had been living in Jacksonville for two years when one of the hardest fought campaigns took place that the people of Jacksonville have ever witnessed. The primary was as hard fought as the election. The first ward and the fourth ward had two delegates more in the city convention than the second and third ward. Dick Yates was serving his first term as city attorney and wanted to be re-elected. One Harry Dummer wanted to succeed Yates and had a slate made out in a quiet way and had a strong following in the second and fourth wards. Yates and Andrew Russell formed a slate with Dr. Willard for mayor, Wm. A. Kirby for city clerk, Yates for city attorney and Andrew Russell for treasurer. The Yates and Russell faction appealed to me at the State Hospital where I was working for all the support I could give them—as they were in great danger of losing the fourth ward.

I got busy and mustered up twenty-four voters who were employed at the State Hospital and marched in a body to the old armory hall in the fourth ward. We carried the ward for our slate of delegates to the city convention by a majority of twelve. At the convention we nominated our ticket and they were all elected. It was the first office that Andrew Russell ever held. The hard fight was in the election. I spent a week working for the success of that ticket and for the success of the new charter. The City of Jacksonville had a proposition submitted to the people to vote on as to whether they should organize under the general law or should continue under the old "special charter." The question was non-partisan and all the progressive citizens took a stand for the new charter, which was carried by a small majority.

If all the time that I have spent and all the money I have spent was computed—it would make years of time and hundreds of dollars of money—and all for the interests of my friends and the principle of the party. I have never asked the members of the successful political party for any political appointment for myself or any of my friends—if I ever got anything, I wanted to win it.

I was a delegate to the county convention in 1897 when we nominated Chas. B. Graff for county commissioner and I worked hard for his election, the first office he ever held, and I helped nominate him for county clerk and worked hard for his election. In 1908 I worked hard for the election of Andrew Russell in Macoupin county and in 1912 he never came in to Macoupin county. He sent his advertising and correspondence to me. After the landslide in 1912 he wrote me a personal letter, thanking me for the interest I had shown and the work I had done in his behalf. In 1914 when I had only been back in Morgan county a few months he hunted me up and wanted me to go as a delegate to the State Convention at Peoria (and I went.) I worked hard for his election as well as the whole republican ticket and I made one trip to Waverly with the whole county ticket and a week before the election I made a special trip in the interest of Grant Graff. In the city election of 1915 when I was nominated for one of the city commissioners, Chas. B. Graff opposed me on the ground that I had not been a resident of the city or county long enough to be recognized.

By the earnest request of a number of republicans throughout the county I consented to be a candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court which was the only county office that I would care to have as I was well acquainted with the duties of that office, and before I would consent to be a candidate I consulted Mr. Russell on the fifth day of January in Room No. 105 at the Dunlap Hotel just before the 20th Congressional committee was called to order to choose Sherman for president. Mr. Russell promised me that he would see that C. B. Graff would not be against me this time as they had no candidate in view and that I would be acceptable to the republicans in the county, which I was, if Mr. Graff had wanted to support me. He solicited 15 men in the county before he could get a candidate that would consent to make the race against me unless Graff would agree to put him over, which he promised to do. Mr. Russell claims that he took no part in county politics although he was very anxious to have Mr. Graff chairman of the county committee.

Fred B. Henderson was the man the committee wanted that would be satisfactory to the opposing factions—but what happened—Mr. Russell, the man that said he takes no part in county politics, comes to the front and consults every member of the county central committee that it is a special desire that Mr. Graff be chosen unanimously for county chairman who ever heard of a committeeman or a county chairman going out soliciting candidates for certain offices or even taking part in the primary other than to vote his own sentiments and working for the success of the whole ticket at the election.

However as it is all over I wish to thank the 1147 republicans that so loyally supported me at the primary election. These votes I know—come from honest men with an honest purpose and in opposition to machine politics. I admire any republican or democrat who can go out in his own party and receive the nomination at the hands of that party on his own merits and his own personality, and then come before the people in an honest and honorable manner and be elected without the support of a bi-partisan machine, composed of two or three republicans and two or three democrats who dictate who shall be elected regardless of ability or qualifications by furnishing bonds and dictating who his deputies shall be, that they may add another link to their endless bi-partisan chain.

I appeal to the simon pure, unadorned American citizen and taxpayer of Morgan county to get away from that hand picked and kiln dried machine. Come out of the dark into the light and elect our officials by the people, not by a machine. The people of Morgan county demand men for their officers, men that are acquainted with the people and their affairs. I believe in the genuine American patriotism of the people of Morgan county and that the time has come when the people will no longer listen to the displacement of patriotism by the greed of a machine, which would solicit you to vote for a man to put its ends one day—then you would feel like cursing that man 364 days in the year afterwards. Do not vote for what you do not want for fear you will get what you do want. Be on the lookout for this political gang called on the safety valve with both feet and pull wide open the throttle when personal interest is the only thing sought.

I am opposed to men who use the church as a cloak behind which to hide political crookedness—men that will partake of the bread and wine and then come out and influence the poor and weak minded that only live from day to day and for what they can get out of their vote on election day. It was Lincoln who said "You can fool some of the people all the time, and all the people some of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time."

RHEUMATISM AFTER HIS DAY'S OUTING

Hunting Trip On a Wet Day Brings Painful Results.

Once upon a time Charles Mullen, of Philadelphia, went gunning. It was a dismal rainy day, and long exposure to cold and wet brought on a severe attack of rheumatism. He was confined to his home.

A friend recommended Sloan's Liniment, citing his own case as evidence of its effectiveness. Mullen bought a bottle and applied it to his aching limbs. Soon improvement was noticed and he was able to return to business.

Mr. Mullen writes: "Since that experience I have never been without Sloan's Liniment in the medicine chest." You will find it soothes bruises, sprains, toothache and relieves lame back, neuralgia, in fact all external pains. At all druggists 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle.

JONES sometimes wakes up feeling cross and in consequence the family know it without his telling them in so many words.

Mrs. Jones attributes it to biliousness and if it doesn't wear off during the day she gives him a dose of liver medicine at night. The next morning he feels better and she gives him coffee for breakfast,—and the next morning—and the next morning. And in a few days Jones has another spell.

Dear Mrs. Jones means all right, but she doesn't seem to realize that if she didn't give Jones his morning coffee she wouldn't have to give him the liver medicine and Jones would feel all right without both.

Housewives everywhere have found out that Instant Postum takes the place of breakfast coffee perfectly. And that is only one of the reasons why Instant Postum has wholly supplanted the use of coffee on thousands upon thousands of American breakfast tables.

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENCE

Berlin, Nov. 20.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The American Association of Commerce and Trade of Berlin has been investigating the rumors circulated abroad to the effect that Germany is preparing for dumping enormous quantities of cheap goods there after the close of the war. According to those rumors Germany has mobilized a vast army of ill-paid old men, women and children to work on cheap, staple goods for export, consisting chiefly of steel and iron goods, textiles and cigars. It is further represented that vast quantities of these goods are being stored for shipment when the war ends.

According to the Association's "Weekly Report" all such rumors are based upon misinformation. It states that there is no surplus labor in Germany that could be diverted to the production of the goods in question. Moreover, the supply of labor is not even sufficient for producing the demands of home consumers, besides the vast quantities of war materials needed, and instead of wages being so low now that manufacturers would find this a favorable time for producing cheap goods, the report points out that the wages of all workers have accordingly increased, in proportion to the increased cost of living.

The iron and steel now produced in Germany is consumed for the greater part in making arms and ammunition, while the remainder barely suffices for the legitimate requirements of civilians, "It being obvious therefore that no output is left over for delivery after the war," Itence also hardware, household goods and many export articles of iron and steel "are now produced to a very limited extent, just covering the domestic demand," and practically all orders from neutral countries have had to be cancelled.

Similar statements are made regarding the dyestuffs industry.
"Their prices have risen considerably during the war." Makers do not limit themselves to making dyes. They also make, and now more than ever, chemicals, dyes, and explosives, so that dyestuffs are now playing an insignificant role in production." In respect to toys it is noted that production is rendered very difficult by reason of the lack of raw materials, so that the output is limited to the domestic demand.

The entire range of textile industries, which constitute a very large percent of Germany's economic activity, are now wholly eliminated from manufacture for export owing to lack of the raw materials; supplies of these are so short that they were long ago consigned to the government in order to conserve them for military requirements, and only such small quantities are liberated for the requirements of the civilian population as are absolutely necessary. This is also true of the rubber and leather trades.

In fact, there is not one single industry that could be named which conditions as to raw materials supplies, labor and wages, are such as would render it possible for manufacturers to turn out goods with a view to storing them for sale abroad after the war.

Stockholm, Oct.—An eight hour workday in the woodpulp and paper industry of Sweden, Norway and Denmark and Russia may possibly be the result of an investigation into conditions in the industry which are about to be begun by commissions representing the four countries. The minister of the Interior of Sweden has given his consent to the participation of Sweden in the investigation which will be directed to ascertaining whether the three-shift system can be introduced without seriously han-dapping the industry, most of whose products are exported.

Don't Worry About Gray Hair

Gray hair is simply sick or starved hair. If any of the five vital elements—oxygen, hydrogen, carbon, nitrogen or sulphur—are missing, the hair turns gray or falls out. You can prevent and overcome this by giving the hair follicles the nourishment needed.

VOLA-VITA

is a scientific preparation based on the hair analysis, made to supply to the hair roots the missing elements. Thus VOLA-VITA naturally restores youthful color to gray hair, stops hair falling and makes it grow. And VOLA-VITA contains no alcohol.

Vola-Vita is sold and guaranteed by all good druggists and the Vola-Vita Mfg. Co., Chicago, $1.00 per bottle.

WOMEN IN THE NEWS

Miss Rebecca Shelly, of Detroit,

Mich., who was one of the most enthusiastic passengers on the Ford Peace Ship and remained enthusiastic has not yet lost hope that well-intentioned American pacifists may in time "get the boys out of the trenches," even if it isn't "by Christmas."

Miss Shelly has been the soul of a new movement, with headquarters in New York, which has resulted in the organization of the American Neutral Conference Committee, which is to place itself at the head of the neutral nations and suggest terms of peace to the belligerents. She is the secretary of the committee, which so far has enlisted the appreciation of such well-known pacifists as Jane Addams, John Hayes Hammond, George W. Kirby and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

Henry Ford has refused this time to have anything to do with so long the war, the Miss Shelly, his follower, hopes to get him interested yet in the new project.

The United States civil service commission will conduct an examination in Washington December 12 to fill a vacancy open to women only, as assistant in junior extension work in the Department of Agriculture, at a salary of from $1800 to $2400.

The duties will be to assist supervisory officers in both office and field work in the organization of boys' and girls' extension work, with especial reference to the home demonstration projects. The post will require considerable travel in the northern, central and eastern states.

Now that Prince Hirohito, heir to the throne of Japan, has been formally invested with the dignity of his heirship—which ceremony took place this month upon his reaching his 16th birthday—the next business in hand will be to choose his bride. It is thought that his engagement will soon be announced, tho the marriage may be deferred for some two or three years. As a rule, the future Empress of Japan must be picked from five princely Japanese families, but as luck will have it, there is only one maiden of marriageable age this time among the whole five, and unless the old rule is broken she will inevitably be called upon to wear the crown. This is the Princess Asako Ichijo, only fourteen years old and at present a schoolgirl in the Peierces' School in Tokyo. She is described as a charming, plump and merry little Japanese miss, not yet old enough to have abandoned the native kimono costume for the European frocks which court etiquette exacts for the older aristocrats who have been "presented at court," which is the equivalent of the American society girl's debut. Little Princess Asako has been the center of interest not only at her school, but indeed among all of these high court circles which do not yet know her, since her name has come into prominence as the future consort of the youthful Emperor-to-be.

Lady Amy Harrington of England, who as Amy McMillan toured the Orient in former President Taft's famous party with Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, then Alice Roosevelt, is at present the guest of her brother, Philip H. McMillan, of Detroit.

Lady Hamilton is accompanied by her husband, Sir John Harrington, lieutenant-colonel in the British army, who is on sick leave after having been wounded in France. As Amy McMillan, daughter of the late Senator James McMillan, she was one of Alice Roosevelt's famous bevy of "chums," and her marriage to Sir John in 1907 quickly followed that of Alice Roosevelt to Congressman Longworth, who had also been a member of the Orient trip chaperoned by Mr. Taft, then Secretary of State under President Roosevelt. Sir John and his American bride spent a romantic honeymoon in the heart of Africa.

Selma Lagerlof, the famous Swedish novelist, celebrates her fifty-eighth birthday today. She was born November 20, 1858, the daughter of an army officer and estate-owner. She was educated at The Royal Women Superior Training College at Stockholm. She early showed literary talent, she devoted herself entirely to authorship only after her 37th year, in 1895. She never married.

In 1909 Miss Lagerlof was awarded the Nobel Prize in literature, and has since been a figure of international renown. She has traveled extensively in most countries of Europe, in Egypt, and in Palestine. With Ellen Key, the famous sociological writer, who is also a Swede, she shares the honor of being the most conspicuous feminine literary figure in Scandinavia.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER
75 YEARS OLD

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 20.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, former Dominion premier and now leader of the Liberal opposition in the house of commons, received a flood of congratulations today on the occasion of his 75th birthday anniversary. Sir Wilfrid has been in public life since 1871, in which year he became a member of the provincial parliament of Quebec. In 1891 he was chosen the Liberal party leader, and in 1896 he became Dominion premier. He was the first French-Canadian to be honored.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(Ways and means of combating the pine blister rust, which, despite strenuous efforts to eradicate it continues to destroy millions of dollars' worth of valuable timber trees over a large section of the country, are to be discussed at an important conference opened here today by the Interstate Committee for the Suppression of the Pine Blister Rust. Forestry experts and special commissioners from more than a dozen states are attending the conference, which will continue its sessions over tomorrow.
